

Hancock Shooting Academy is located in Eatonton, Georgia. Our world renowned Coach Craig Hancock has been in the spotlight for the training of two-time gold Olympian Vincent Hancock. We train on the very same grounds where Hancock's career first began. Coach Hancock is also known for his coaching through many students at Lindenwood University located in St. Louis, MO. (2012-2014) Coach Hancock has 3 National Championship rings to show for the students and their outstanding performances. One for each year he was there to coach students to their success. Hancock has also hosted many skeet competitions such as State Junior Olympics for 3 consecutive years (2008-2010) under Flying "V" Sports.

We currently have 7 resident athletes that train daily on site. Specializing in International Skeet. Our machines here are set to run on wireless and are delayed for the international level.

In our classroom setting we are equipped with complete visual exercises, computerized coherence training, video analysis, and reaction training tools as well. Large screens accommodate our athletes as they train. The newest piece of equipment added here at the Academy is the DynaVision D2 Visuo motor skills trainer. This equipment is used in Universities such as FSU, other large Universities are using this training system as well. We are the first and only shooting academy in the world equipped with this latest technology. Other classroom tools available include the Dry Fire system to simulate the shooting experience for the students inside of the classroom.

We also provide numerous NRA Level I Coaching Certification classes, as well as hosting shooting clinics throughout the year not just at the Academy but all over the country.

Coach Hancock's passion for coaching the sport began in 1993 as he began coaching the local 4-H team in Georgia. Where his two oldest children learned to shoot American Trap, American Skeet, and Sporting Clays. When Vincent the youngest child showed such interest in the shooting sports that's when Hancock stepped up to the challenge and brought in International Skeet to the locals here, as the very competitive sport began and spread to his coaching career and landed his son in the spotlight for shooting sports around the world. In 2012 Hancock began coaching on a full time basis and his students have been shining on podiums all over the world. It's with great pleasure that Hancock coaches the knowledge that he has to young students every day. Coaching them to success and helping them achieve their "DREAMS".
